

"STRAWBERRY RED" LOOKS OVER PONIES

---

On the Weestern Plains While
Stampede Preparations Are Being Rushed

While "Strawbrry Red" Wall is looking over his string of bucking horses on the plains of Western Canada, the committee in charge of the Stampede has not been idle. Advertising is going out in all directions and the card of events has been prepared and rounded into shape. The events for the Stampede proper have been decided and a program complete in this respect has been issued.

Vernon riders are going to make an effort to corral a number of the prizes, and in anticipation of the big affair on June 30, July 1 and 2, are arranging miniature stampedes on Frank Hayward's Kedleston ranch. Already they have had one full dress rehearsal, and on the afternoon of Thursday, June 10th, are holding another. Vernon has some good riders and they are showing some class.

At the grounds the improvements contemplated, are about completed. The grand stand has been restored to, and will prove a point of vantage from which the thrilling scenes will be witnessed. The repairs to the fence are about completed, and next week the work on the track will be undertaken so that there will be all the requisites for a successful race meet.
